

Beagle Hunter Diaries – Support Guide

Last updated: January 2026

Welcome to Beagle Hunter Diaries

Beagle Hunter Diaries is designed for rabbit hunters who want to record hunts, save memories of their dogs, and track hunts over time. This support document explains how to use the app, manage your data, subscriptions, and get help if you need it.

Getting Started

You can begin by creating a Beagle Profile or logging a hunt. Each hunt entry may include date, location, dogs used, photos, videos, and notes. Hunts will appear in your Hunt Journal so you can look back on your experiences anytime.

Where Your Data Is Stored

All hunt entries, dogs, photos, and videos are stored locally on your iPhone or iPad using Apple's secure Core Data storage. Your information is not uploaded to external servers and remains private on your device. You own your data at all times.

Keeping Your Data When Switching Phones

If you want to keep your hunt history when upgrading or replacing your phone, you must back up your current device first using iCloud Backup or iPhone-to-iPhone transfer. When you restore your backup to a new device, your Beagle Hunter Diaries data will transfer with it. If you delete the app or reset your device without a backup, your data may be permanently lost. Because the developer does not store your data on external servers, recovery is not possible.

Subscriptions

The app may offer subscription features processed securely through Apple. The developer does not handle or store your billing information. Subscription management is handled through your Apple ID account settings in the App Store.

Troubleshooting Tips

- If the app does not open, restart your device.
- Ensure you are running the latest iOS version.
- Check you are using the latest app version.
- If data appears missing, verify you restored from backup correctly.
- If photos or videos are slow to load, ensure your device has storage space available.

Deleting Data

If you delete a hunt or dog profile, it will be removed from your device permanently. Deleting the app will remove all stored data unless the device is restored from a previous backup later.

Privacy & Security

Your hunt journal stays private on your device. For more information, please review the Beagle Hunter Diaries Privacy Policy included with the app.
